

King And Queen County Public Schools Budget Factors

The Schools Our Children Deserve

We all want our children to attend schools that are well-resourced and able to provide reliable transportation, nutritious meals, quality instruction, and essential health services. Since the pandemic, our roughly 800 students in King Queen face more challenges than ever, from staff shortages, drops in academic achievement, and additional mental health needs. When looking at our current local spending, it's clear our budget comes up short in meeting the most pressing challenges our students and schools face today. King Queen can step up to fund our schools at levels that meet our students' needs and better reflect our capacity and commitment to our children.

Budget

In the 2022-2023 school year, King and Queen County spent $15,895 per student, ranking us 38 out of 131 school divisions in the state. Yet, when adjusted for the high cost of living, the spending power drops to $14,971 per student and King and Queen County ranks 51 out of Virginia's 131 school divisions.

King Queen has seen a drop in local per student spending of $286 or 5% between the 2014-2015 and 2022-2023 school years (adjusted for inflation). The Northern Neck region increased local per pupil spending by 6% over this time. Compared to the regional average for local per student spending, King Queen spent $513 less in the 2022-2023 school year. While King Queen had a strengthening economy over this time, its level of commitment and effort towards schools did not reflect this.

Capacity and Effort

Virtually every locality in the state spends beyond what the state requires it to match (referred to as Required Local Effort) because the state vastly underestimates what it actually costs to run schools. In aggregate, divisions spent 107% above the Required Local Effort, but King and Queen County only spent 28%, which is 79 percentage points below the state average. King And Queen would need to spend $2,498,675 more annually to be at the average state percent above the Required Local Effort (this reflects the low level of effort the division puts into per pupil spending relative to the state).

King and Queen County has capacity to do more to raise adequate revenue for its schools. The locality has a relatively high revenue capacity according to the Virginia Auditor of Public Accounts and has a lower level of fiscal stress than most localities. King and Queen County's property tax effort is 31% below the average state rate.

A one penny property tax increase in King and Queen County would raise approximately $100,000 annually.

Outcomes

Many students lost significant ground on state academic achievement between the 2018-2019 and 2022-2023 school years. Students in King And Queen saw a drop in pass rates on the reading SOL test of 19.0% and 55.1% in math - among the largest declines in the state. Yet further disparities exist, with math SOL pass rates dropping 60.3% for economically disadvantaged students. King And Queen must do more for its students who face significant barriers to education.

Staffing

The teacher vacancy rate in King And Queen was 3.3% as of October 2023.

King And Queen had an average budgeted teacher salary of $54,438 in the 2023-2024 school year, which is $16,003 below the state average. Adjusted for the relatively high cost of living in the locality, the average teacher salary drops to $51,274. With high salaries and lower cost of living in nearby communities, on top of a dwindling supply of graduates with teaching degrees, King And Queen is not in a strong position to compete for high-quality educators in the future.
